TRADITION: Apple Pan is an icon at the Westwood Expo stop.

EXPO LINE TOUR:

At Apple Pan, burgers served with a side of nostalgia

BY JEFFREY I. GOODMAN
Daily Press Staff Writer

Editor's note: With the opening of the Expo Line's extension to Santa Monica, locals have a new way to explore neighboring areas. The Daily Press will publish a weekly travelogue about what to eat, see and do near each of the stations along the Expo Line, continuing this week at the third non-Santa Monica stop: Westwood/Rancho Park.

It's hard to figure out exactly which sense to process first.

Once you pull on the first set of dark green doors and push through the second, there's the sight of bygone-era cash registers atop a U-shaped counter dotted with metallic holders for conical paper cups as longtime workers with white soda jerk hats hustle around the frenetic but efficient central kitchen.

There's the sound of competing conversations as customers chat over the whirring and humming din of the diner, an appropriate score to the nostalgic feel of cushioned red seatback stools, crinkling wax paper and laminated menus with recipes dating back to the 19th century.

There's the smell of warm apple pie accentuated by wafting scents of fresh burgers and French fries, an aromatic amalgamation so enticing that it forces my uncle into a partial genuflection of worship when he walks by.

And then, of course, there's the taste of arguably the best burger and pie in the region.

It's a sensory nirvana only experienced at the Apple Pan, a long-standing West L.A. burger joint that's a short, anticipation-filled walk from the Expo Line's Westwood/Rancho Park station.

What can be written about this place, a destination since 1947, that hasn't been before? It's old-timey to the point where it sometimes seems on the verge of extinction, it's iconic in a neighborhood that has seen many changes over the last decade and it's delicious in a way that elicits raving hyperbole.

The tagline under its neon sign is "Quality Forever," the only caveat being that the cash-only establishment is closed on Mondays.

For so many Angelenos, a trip to the Apple Pan comes with a certain esteem, whether it's a quick mid-week lunch or a pie pickup before

Comparing orange and juice

I SWORE I WOULDN'T, BUT I WATCHED the entire five-part ESPN documentary series about O.J. Simpson, "O.J.: Made in America." Actually, it was riveting. And also disturbing, including the graphic murder scenes. O.J., aka "Juice" in the documentary, tells so many bald-face lies that, call me biased, it reminded me of ... Donald Trump (aka "Orange Man").

For example, the bloody footprint of Nicole and Ron's murderer. He was wearing size-12 Bruno Magli shoes and there were only 299 pairs imported into the U.S. O.J. just happens to wear size 12 shoe but defiantly proclaimed, "I wouldn't wear those ugly-a shoes!"

At the civil trial in Santa Monica, tons of photos surfaced of O.J. wearing those ugly you-know-whats. And what did O.J. say? "Those aren't my shoes." Apparently O.J. wanted us to believe that someone forced him to wear the Bruno Maglis over and over. A kid in grade school wouldn't concoct such a lame excuse. But Trump would.

In July 2015, Trump infamously said of John McCain, "He's no war hero." However, Trump later insisted he hadn't said it. We all saw it, just as we saw the photos of O.J. in the Bruno Maglis. It's as though their narcissism emboldens them to believe they can charm (O.J.) or con (Trump) their way out of anything.

In September 2015, Trump was quoted in Rolling Stone magazine about Carly Fiorina: "Look at that face!? Would anyone vote for that?" But Trump told Fox News, "I was talking about her persona, not looks." (As lame as, "I can't release tax returns because I'm being audited.")

Days after the murders of Nicole and Ron, O.J. gave three versions of his cut finger. First he cut it on a glass in Chicago when the police informed him Nicole was dead. (Except O.J.'s blood was on the Bronco before he went to Chicago!) Then, O.J. cut his finger chipping golf balls. (We all know how dangerous chipping golf balls can be!) And then he got the cut getting his cellphone out of the Bronco.

Talk about a bad omen. In 1966 and newly arrived on campus, O.J. was interviewed by Daily Trojan sportswriter Paul Morantz, who would go on to become a famed Westside attorney. Juice bragged how, throughout his life, he'd always talked his way out of trouble. Including 28 years later.

Actually, O.J.'s trial should have been in Santa Monica, as the murders were in near-by Brentwood. But D.A. Gil Garcetti was concerned about possible riots if O.J. were convicted by a predominately white jury. Given the "mountain of evidence," Garcetti was convinced. Even downtown with a predominantly African American jury, there had to be a conviction. In four hours, the jury delivered an acquittal. Go figure.

As for "Orange," two weeks ago Trump called the universally respected judge in one of three class-action civil lawsuits against him for fraud, "a Mexican" when he was actually born in Indiana. This past week, Trump called for Muslim profiling and said perhaps Muslims should carry cards. He's called for bringing back waterboarding "and worse," and says, "We should take out the families of terrorists," like he's a Mafioso.

Now it's possible Trump's campaign may be a giant scam like Trump U. With donations, he's paying his family and his businesses, not to mention hawking his books. (One should be re-titled "Art of the Steal.") Marco Rubio called Trump "a con artist," and so do Ronald Reagan's two sons!

Married three times, and with numerous extramarital affairs, Trump has challenged the religious integrity of Ted Cruz, Ben Carson, Mitt Romney and now Hillary. Questioned if he's ever asked God for forgiveness, one of the main tenets of the Christian faith, Trump said, "Not really."

Pontificating on the Orlando massacre, Trump suggested that nightclub patrons should have had guns strapped to their waists: "Then the bullets would have been going in the opposite direction." Trump's mixing of booze and bullets is so insane, even the NRA trashed it.

"Juice" may be paroled next year. As for "Orange," on Monday a woman filed a $100-million federal lawsuit alleging that Trump raped her in 1994, when she was 13. Specious? I'm reminded of Trump as he constantly floats ludicrous stories i.e. Ted Cruz's father helped Oswald kill JFK. Feigning innocence, Trump shrugs, "All I know is what's on the Internet, folks." He's forever "Don the Con."

'Kindred' spirits and a kindled fire

A FEW WEEKS AGO, I MET A GIRL NAMED Rachael. This is hilarious, by the way, because "Rachael" is the fake name I always use when people ask to remain anonymous. But I swear — this Rachael is very real. Rachael Blackwood. I met her at a theatrical production, where she played Alexander Hamilton. One does not experience a young Australian woman's successfully transformation into a Founding Father without wanting to become said woman's friend. So I asked Rachael to coffee.

Obviously, she's an actress. I found out she's a writer too, like me — kindred spirits. And ever so appropriately, she wrote a play called "Kindred."

First of all, am I the only one impressed that people are out there writing plays? Like, slow clap and Renaissance hats off to you.

"What's it about?" I asked. "Domestic violence," she explained. Should've skipped the coffee and gone straight for whiskey.

Yup. Didn't think we'd be talking about domestic violence today, did you? Thought this column was all about happiness, didn't you? Well, somehow, it still is.

Do you know why I love artists (perpetual angst aside)? A true artist will encounter a raging, life-threatening fire in her life; and instead of running or letting the flames burn everything in sight, she uses them to kindle a fireplace. And then we all get to sit in front of that fireplace, drinking hot chocolate, as our bulldog, Mattias, curls up by our feet.

That metaphor got away from me ... What I mean is this: Something bad happened to Rachael. She took the bad thing and turned it into a work of art. Now, every time people go to see her play — it's very good, by the way; she let me read it — they get understanding and healing from something that could have just been a bad thing that happened to Rachael. And Rachael gets healing from that too. Maybe that's happiness. I think it's something more substantial.

There's a lot happening to and around us that can be discouraging to a point of, "Why even bother?" But why we all have to continue to bother is because we really are kindred. If Rachael gives up, she robs people of the gift that "Kindred" is; the gift that her acting is; the gift that her being human is. And we all have this responsibility.

If I gave up, for example, I'd rob you of something: You wouldn't get the genius of this column. Kidding. It's not a column — it's a periodical. Cheers.

Karen Reitz, a manager of the Ocean Park branch, said the branch decided to host those workshops because many visitors of the branch have shown their interest in learning those skills. Reitz oversees a group that meets monthly to discuss latest mystery books.

The Fairview branch will have a grand launch of the renovated building as it hosts workshops on July 16. On July 23, the Montana branch will host workshops on skills such as speed reading and creating nail art. On July 30, the Pico branch will host workshops on skills such as making flower arrangements.

Bender said she hopes members of the community will use the library's resources to improve on skills they learned at the workshops.

"You can talk to a librarian, or get DVDs, or do other things to learn more about the topics," Bender said.

LIBRARY

Nancy Bender, an adult programs librarian at the SMPL, said the library decided to bring back the festival, as it was a success last year. Last year's festival on May 30 featured more than 55 workshops.

The workshops this year will be spread out throughout the month, with the Main Library hosting 28 workshops on June 25. Other four branches of the library will rotate hosting workshops on Saturdays starting on July 9 and ending on July 30. Foyt said the library decided to spread out the workshops because of feedback from the community.

Foyt said the library chose workshops based on suggestions from the community and the staff. The library also received about two-dozen proposals from the community, she said.

Ocean Park branch, for instance, will host three workshops on July 9 such as a workshop on writing a mystery novel and on getcials will begin conducting a search for her replacement “immediately.”

The shakeup at the local high school comes as SMMUSD searches for a new superintendent following the announcement that Sandra Lyon will have a new job with the Palm Springs Unified School District starting July 1. An interim leader for the district has not yet been announced.

Mayoral, who earned a bachelor’s degree in biology and a master’s in education from UCLA, taught for six years at Fairfax High School in the Los Angeles Unified School District before arriving at Samohi as a science teacher in 1995. During her initial stint there, she served as chair of the chemistry department and led professional development for Advanced Placement teachers.

In 2004 Mayoral became a Samohi house principal, a role she kept until she was named principal of John Adams Middle School in 2010. In late 2012 she was named administrator of the year by the California Music Educators Association for her work with the JAMS music department.

She was responsible for keeping students safe during the deadly June 2013 shooting at Santa Monica College, which is in close proximity to the 16th Street middle school. She has described it as the scariest ordeal of her life.

Mayoral’s tenure at JAMS ended shortly thereafter as she followed many of the graduates to Samohi, where she replaced Laurel Fretz as principal. Fretz had been in charge of the high school for two years.

“I just work hard to get our kids what they need,” Mayoral told the Samohi student newspaper in 2012. “It means connecting with teachers so that we are working to maximize our experiences with our students, it means committing to their continued growth and long, long hours to get what they need and it means being here for the kids. That’s all we do.”

Under Mayoral’s watch, Samohi has seen a variety of crises, controversies and tragedies.

In the fall of 2013, she canceled the school’s homecoming rally following what she deemed disruptive behavior in prior assemblies. She also received pushback over new dress-code emphases in her first few months as principal.

In spring 2014, she was criticized over the handling of a scuffle between a student and teacher Mark Black, who was reportedly trying to confiscate marijuana.

Tensions also flared over another personnel matter in mid-2014, when Vikings baseball coach Kurt Schwengel was canned after two successful seasons. Allegations of cronyism popped up when Loren Drake was named as Schwengel’s replacement.

Mayoral’s leadership was again tested as a measles outbreak spread across Southern California in early 2015, when a Samohi baseball coach and an infant at the school’s child care facility were found with the contagious virus. Around the same time, she was also forced to deal with the aftermath of a brawl between Samohi and Beverly Hills High School students following a league basketball game.

Shock and sadness washed over the campus in May 2015 when freshman Leo Castillo, a JAMS alumnus, was killed while riding his scooter in Santa Monica.

EXPO

Thanksgiving. For me, it's practically a personal (albeit very short) mecca. It's where I went for pre-homework fries during middle school. It's where I've gone for dinner before attending basketball games at UCLA. It's where I've caught up with old friends over burgers and IBC root beers. And it's where I've taken dates for apple pie a la mode.

Needless to say, the gastronomic gods have blessed this corner of Pico Boulevard and Glendon Avenue with decades of food-borne thrill-ness.

When the Apple Pan is busy, which it often is, the wait is beautiful chaos. As diners-to-be line the perimeter of the 26-seat room, there are two conflicting philosophies at play. Some think it's service on a first-arrival basis regardless of where you're standing to wait; others believe there's an understood separation by side. You can imagine the tension when a small group walks in, waits on the left side and watches as another party that came in after them fills a new vacancy on the right.

It would almost be worth grabbing a bowl of popcorn to watch, but I'm not here to eat popcorn. (Although, if that's what you're looking for, the Landmark Theatres are just a block away.) No, I'm here to eat my favorite burger on the planet.

It will look like your server is just scribbling squiggly lines on a pad of paper, but trust that your order will be done right. Ask for the hickory burger with extra sauce and extra lettuce, a side of fries and a cream soda for good measure.

You and this burger will get along famously. The inimitable hickory sauce, smoky and tangy and oozing with flavor, is the stuff of legend. (My brother swears that the sauce's stratospheric quality climbs even higher when it has the chance to mingle with the burger's beef patty, and he might be right.) The lettuce plays an important role as well, providing a cool, refreshing crunch. It's simple, it's $7.65 and it's a reason to believe there's hope for humanity.

When you're finished with the burger, your server will pop up out of nowhere with a serious question: "Any pie?" There's no wrong answer (except "No thanks," of course). Close out your meal with a banana cream slice, a dessert so mindbogglingly good that it should be used as a peace offering at international diplomacy summits.

At this point, don't feel bad if there are people standing behind you, waiting to eat. After all, they're planning to enjoy the Apple Pan exactly as you did, the same way others before you have done for nearly 70 years. It only makes sense.

The Expo Line now has 19 stations covering 15.2 miles between Downtown Los Angeles and Santa Monica. A regular one-way fare is $1.75 and includes two hours of free transfers for riders using a TAP card. A daily pass good for unlimited rides on Metro is $7 and monthly passes are $100. Visit tap-go.net for more information.

CRIME WATCH

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON JUNE 10 AT ABOUT 11:31 P.M.

Officers responded to a radio call for service of a family disturbance at the 7-Eleven convenience store at 1600 Santa Monica Blvd. A man and woman were in an argument over the man locking their child in a vehicle and having driven the child while under the influence of an alcoholic beverage. Officers arrived and discovered the man in the 7-Eleven parking lot. The woman and child had left prior to officers' arrival. Follow-up investigation led to the arrest of the man, later identified as Benny Morales, 31, of Van Nuys, on a charge of child endangerment. Bail was set at $500,000.

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

BE CLEAR ABOUT YOUR PLANS, GEM

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ Your instincts point you toward doing some networking and staying on top of various situations. You could act in a very different way from what you had planned. Deal with the unexpected as best as you can. A friend plays into your mood and decisions. Tonight: Surprise!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ Speak your mind, but be ready to chill out. Touch base with a family member early on, before your pace becomes too hectic to stop. Understand what is happening within your immediate circle. You might have to reorganize your day. Tonight: Play it loose and easy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ You are full of energy, and you are likely to outdo anyone who decides to challenge you. People often forget that you have a versatility that many of them could only wish for. Nevertheless, you will have to hop over a problem right now. Tonight: Be clear about your plans.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ Consider your options carefully. One-on-one relating with someone who understands you, as well as the situation, can only help you. Still, you might want to do little and observe what comes down the path toward you. Tonight: Read between the lines with a dear friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Let go of a need to feed your ego, and allow others to take center stage. They need to prove their worth among those who are present. A loved one might have a sudden reaction that could set you back. Do some serious thinking. Tonight: Be with a special person.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ Continue to clear out as much as you can, especially as you are on the edge of the weekend. You will want to be footloose and fancy free. Try not to absorb or take on someone else's work at the last minute; you don't need to do that. Tonight: Out on the town.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ You might be far more distracted than you realize. Use care around partners and loved ones. You will witness a flakiness that you are not used to. Know that this, too, will pass. Curb your reaction to someone else's temper. Tonight: Have a long-overdue heart-to-heart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★ You might need to think through a decision involving family, a domestic matter and/or a personal situation. You aren't likely to be in the mood for a heavy discussion, yet you can't seem to avoid it. You can decide to be light and quiet about the situation. Tonight: At home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ Finally clear out calls and any details involving a pending action or project. Avoid a problem rather than dive right in. Sometimes, by walking away, you force others to resolve the issue. You might be much more content if you don't get involved. Tonight: Head home early.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Reach out to those who ask you for advice, especially about their finances. You need to hear what others are experiencing. You might feel as if you need to do something about what you are hearing. Be aware of the complexity of the issue. Tonight: Hang out. Join a friend for TGIF.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ Reach out to a friend who always has a response to some very different situations. Your sense of humor emerges in what could be a difficult moment. The unexpected seems to surround you right now. You will gain a different perspective soon. Tonight: Make it your treat.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ You might opt to try a different way of approaching and/or handling a personal matter. Note how others are handling their anger. As a result, you could decide to work on managing your temper. Let a loved one know what you are up to. Tonight: Make it an early night.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have:

- ★★★★★ Dynamic
- ★★★★ Positive
- ★★★ Average
- ★★ So-So
- ★ Difficult

This year you curb your temper by handling others in a way that is quite special and unique. You sometimes notice that others try to copy your style. Rather than becoming irritated, be flattered. If you are single, you draw many people toward you, but clearly not everyone can be your suitor. Be clear about your intentions. If you are attached, the two of you could have very different goals. Try not to make any judgments, and you will start to see the validity behind your sweetie's thinking. PISCES can be more emotional than you. Be understanding.
